

Sailesh Conjeti is a highly regarded professor at the Hamburg University of Applied Sciences (HAW), where he teaches the Agentic and Generative AI course. Known for his expertise in the field of artificial intelligence, he brings a wealth of knowledge and practical experience to the classroom. Students greatly appreciate his engaging teaching style, his approachable personality, and the charisma he brings to every lecture. His passion for AI and dedication to mentoring make learning both inspiring and enjoyable, fostering an environment where students feel motivated to explore complex topics and develop their skills. Beyond the classroom, Professor Conjeti actively contributes to AI research, bridging the gap between cutting-edge developments and practical applications, which further enriches the educational experience for his students. And is a cool guy ;)